

Multicultural Leadership

This workshop is designed to develop International Leaders, providing them with the competencies to inspire and lead diverse teams, and to manage operations in different cultural contexts. This includes building a collective culture of inclusion, trust, respect and confidence.

The 4 qualities of the Multicultural Leader are:

- Thinking: – the ability to reflect and deal with complexity
- Doing: – pursuing improvement actively
- Leading: – building and inspiring teams, and committing them to continuous learning
- Being: – self aware, emotionally energetic and psychologically mature

Who will this event benefit?

Senior managers and group leaders needing to take on multicultural leadership roles — these leaders will of course be expected to act as role models for the rest of the team.

What will you gain?

As a result of attending this event, you will:

- Understand the principles and processes of motivation, multiculturalism, and change management, and their impact on decision making and business performance
- Develop an authentic, and compelling leadership style, with the ability to motivate and inspire people, at all levels, to release their potential
- Be able to integrate your personal vision and values into leadership communication
- Develop active listening skills for recognising and responding to underlying issues
- Be able to express empathy when building relationships with your clients and colleagues
- Receive feedback on your own style and your impact on diverse teams

What the programme involves:

This three and a half day event blends the concepts of leadership with delegate practice, on live case studies, in a highly interactive workshop environment. Delegates will receive high levels of feedback and will be helped to reflect and act on that feedback. The workshop will be preceded by coaching and case study preparation for each delegate.
